This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. You can search through the full text of this book on the web at `http://books.google.com/`

PREFATORY NOTICE.

The additions to the Astor Library, since the publication of the four volumes of its first Catalogue, containing the Alphabetical Index of Authors, have been so considerable as to require a supplementary volume. The supplement is now laid before the public, and in conjunction with it an Alphabetical Index of Subjects. On referring to the Preface of Part I. of the printed Catalogue it will be seen that Part II., as there announced, would consist of an Alphabetical Index or Dictionary of Subjects, that would probably fill as many volumes as the Alphabetical Catalogue of Authors. This calculation would have proved correct had the original idea been carried out. It contemplated a thorough dissection of the library, and would have embodied references under their appropriate heads to the separate treatises of every miscellaneous work; of every polygraphic writer; of every scientific, historical, and literary collection; of all the Transactions of learned societies, and of the public documents and state papers, as well as to whole volumes. The greatly increased cost of printing and paper has rendered it inexpedient to carry out this purpose to its full extent; it would have required a larger portion of the annual income of the library than could rightly be diverted from the purchase of books. Hence it became necessary to adopt a less extended and less costly system. That which has been adopted is substantially an abridgment of the one first proposed. It limits the references for the most part to the general subjects set forth in the titles of works, and instead of repeating titles in full it refers to the name or word under which the full description will be found in Part I. of the Catalogue. Its alphabetical order is its greatest merit, for it is that which makes it equally serviceable to the common reader and the scholar, and entirely does away with the necessity of the previous question to be asked as to all Catalogues raisonnés, "what is the system upon which the classification is made?" is it Brunet's, or the abstruse one of Mr. Jefferson, or the absolutely incomprehensible one of Dr. A. A. E. Schleiermacher, the last of which transcends transcendentalism. A well arranged, classified Catalogue is certainly a desideratum for a large public library; but in respect to Catalogues it is not the first desideratum, nor is it very important that it should be printed. The Catalogues most needed are those which answer most readily the two questions: Has the library a certain book? and what has it on a certain subject? The Astor Library has had these special objects in view in the compilation of its first Catalogue, and of the alphabetical index of subjects which is now provided for its readers, without attempting to give a scientific classification of human knowledge.

Glanville Bartholomew, or Bartolomæus de Glanvilla. De Proprietatibus Rerum. Fol.

"A volume," says Dibdin, in his Edition of Ames, "of extraordinary typographical beauty and rarity." It is a translation of the Latin original made in the Fourteenth Century by Trevisa, and printed by Wynkyn de Worde between 1490 and 1500, and "is perhaps," says the same author, "the most magnificent publication which ever issued from his press." The paper on which it is printed was the first ever made in England, as appears from the eighth stanza of the concluding verses.

ALPHABETICAL INDEX OF SUBJECTS

IN THE

BOOKS OF THE ASTOR LIBRARY.

DIRECTIONS IN CONSULTING THE INDEX.

Subjects are printed in Italics; Authors and Books referred to in Roman. The References are to the printed Alphabetical Catalogue of the Library and to the Supplement. Suppose the subject to be Americanisms the word following in the Index is Bartlett, J. R., under that name in the Catalogue will be found the Title and Description of the work referred to. When the name of the author is not given the work will be found by the first leading word of its title; thus for example, under the subject Athens, the first reference is Athenian Letters, which will be found under Athenian in the Catalogue. Where the reference is simply to the Catalogue, it is to be understood that the subject is found there under that head. If the subject is not found in the Index, it may be that it is already in the Catalogue as subject in its Alphabetical place, many books being there entered by their subjects, and in such cases, to avoid repetition, they are omitted in the Index. When not found in either it may be concluded that the Library contains no separate work on the subject. The Alphabetical order is retained throughout the Index, except as respects Subdivisions of Scientific and Historical subjects, in which Classification was important. In these cases, to make it more easy of consultation, a supplementary Index of subordinate subjects is appended to the general one. The limits to which the Index was restricted, necessarily render it meagre and forbidding compared with what it would have been, if the references had been made in full. It will, however, be found to afford important facilities to readers in consulting the books of the Library, and with that special object it was compiled.

INDEX OF SUBJECTS.

The subjects are in Italic, the books referred to in Roman type.

Future Life, Alger W. R. Critical History of the Doctrine. This work was overlooked in its proper place; it is especially intitled to be noticed in this Index for the copious and excellent Bibliography appended to it of Works relating to this most important of all subjects, which is undoubtedly the most complete psychological Bibliography ever published, omitting no book or part of a book that relates to the subject, however remotely. On looking it over we find that the following references should be added to those before given under this head. Boehme J., Bonnet E., Brown T., Butler Bp. J., Cardan H., Doddridge P., Fechner G.
